

1. Lamps made using standard wine bottles
2. Stick figure metal push pins
3. "Ceedee Rock" - CDs are stacked on a ladder with colourful hangers
4. "Id" bookends inspired by the human form

mukulgoyal

Humorous and funky
knick-knacks are his forte

It's been a long journey for Mukul Goyal. From IIT, Kanpur to NID, Ahmedabad and a stint at the Domus Academy, Milan where he did his masters in product design.

Now Goyal has found his niche "It took me a while to get a fix on what I wanted to do with my life and I dabbled in everything from engineering to advertising and films." Designing for the international community, which has certain common values rather than the Indian market or foreign buyers is what he focuses on. And today his products can be found in vis-a-vis and the Indi store in New Delhi.

"What direction a product takes depends on the nature of the product. For me design is a journey; one which I don't know the end of."

Working with stone, metal and glass, Goyal plans to venture into other areas of home design like small furniture in the near future.

His witty products like the spiral "Ceedee Stand" for compact discs, ("Ceedee means a ladder in Hindi - hence the name") are stylish and have a whiff of internationalism about them. Mukul remarks, "Much to the dismay of my near and dear ones the design process consumes me completely. After all you can't stop an idea." ♦

Mukul Goyal, Gurgaon, Haryana. Tel: (0)9810178094. E-mail: designwise@mantraonline.com