

Being a designer himself, Goyal has his own theory for each of his collections.

SANJEEV VERMA / HT PHOTOS

Curious collector

Garima Vohra

garima.vohra@hindustantimes.com

Enter Mukul Goyal's office and you cannot take your eyes off the curios on the walls. There are masks, money pouches, bicycle lamps, forks, spectacle frames etc. "I just pick up things that fascinate me, sometimes without any reason," says Goyal.

He bought a bicycle lamp from a Saturday Bazaar. He bought different sizes of hairpins coiled at two ends from Orissa only because they resembled owls. He still has the band cap in blue and red that he had bought from Kolhapur and used to wear it while playing in a band during college days. Similarly, he has a grain-measuring instrument made of wood.

Goyal is a product designer. His products are available under two brands, Tattva Art Hardware and Mukul Goyal signature range of Home Accents.

The Ministry of Sports has commissioned Goyal to redesign the Rajiv Gandhi Khel Ratna Award and to design the newly instituted Rashtriya Khel Protsahan Puruskar.

■ A money pouch.

■ A wooden grain measurer.

■ A rolling lamp.